To the editor:

Perhaps unknowingly -- at least one hopes that comes out as the reason - Real Estate columnist Barbara Corcoran gave Daily News readers incorrect information about paving over front lawns when she wrote "get a cement truck over there fast." While the Yards Text Amendment moves through the approval process, NO ability exists -- as of right -- for a property owner to pave over a front lawn to create a driveway. And in the limited circumstances where paving may be permissible, parking a car in such a location remains illegal. The homeowner should call 311, his local community board and elected officials about the illegal conditions in his neighborhood. The Queens Civic Congress and the members of the over 110 group's in our borough-wide coalition support the Yards Text and identified two needed modifications: reducing the front yard fence from the proposed four feet to three feet require that it be 50% open and requiring the proposed 50% planting for the entire property not just for the front yard in R1, R 2, and R 3 zones. Aesthetics is not the only issue at stake. Environmental circumstances dictate the need for private green space to clean our air, help moderate the air temperature and -- as too many residents learned first hand -- prevent flooding.

Last month my predecessor, Sean Walsh wrote the Mayor urging a task force consisting of City Planning, Environmental Protection, and Parks to oversee reforms to the Zoning Resolution to complement and ensure our city's greening. On code issues, the Queens Civic Congress hosted Buildings Commissioner Patricia Lancaster earlier this year and plans a follow-up meeting with a key agency deputy November 19.

Sincerely,

Corey Bearak, President
